

“Alfred de Zayas offers us an invaluable insider’s account of how the global system created after World War II to protect human rights is brazenly manipulated by the United States Government and others for geopolitical ends. De Zayas is a human rights leader of remarkable insight, experience, wisdom, and integrity, whose account is both searing and hugely constructive.”

—JEFFREY D. SACHS, University Professor, Columbia University

“Alfred de Zayas is an experienced human rights scholar, knowledgeable and straightforward. Worth reading in depth.”

—MARC BOSSUYT, Professor, former President of the Belgian Constitutional Court and member of the UN Sub-Commission on Promotion and Protection of Human Rights

“De Zayas provides a candid view of the ‘human rights industry’ from the perspective of someone who has been inside the system.”

—CURTIS DOEBBLER, Research Professor of Law University of Makeni (Sierra Leone)

“A masterpiece...” —GUY METTAN, Former President, Geneva Press Club

“This book is a long-overdue critique of the human rights system by someone who truly values human rights and who has a unique and valuable perspective as a human rights practitioner for 50 years... I highly recommend this book for experts, practitioners, and lay readers alike.”

—DANIEL KOVALIK, Professor International Human Rights University of Pittsburgh School of Law

“Professor de Zayas raises important issues about the politicization of the UN Human Rights Office and the Human Rights Council...The book is supported by hundreds of credible sources and calls for serious debate.”

—TIAN LI, Director, Center for Human Rights and Peaceful Development, Associate Professor, Shandong University School of Law, China
